Ike Legislative Program Set

President, Top GOP In Accord

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower agreed with GOP congressional leaders today on a list of priority legislation for the new Congress. The list was headed by the new Mideast resolution and continuation of present corporation and excise (sales) taxes.

It included measures dealing with Hungarian refugees, school construction and civil rights.

The agreement was reached at the first regular meeting this year between the President and House and Senate Republican leaders.

The GOP leaders conceded their priority list will have to be discussed with the Democratic leadership which controls Congress.

But the Republicans felt there would be a measure of agreement between the two parties on items picked today for early action.

Plan Excise Retention

Current excise taxes on many items and higher corporate tax rates expire April 1. The President and his leaders agreed today there must be early action to extend these levies.

House Republican Leader Joseph W. Martin Jr. said the administration will seek an extension of one year in the tax rates.

Extension of excise and corporate levies has been taken for granted as administration policy since the GOP leaders announced Dec. 31 Mr. Eisenhower's plans for fiscal 1958 anticipated no reduction in revenues.

The excise taxes, applying primarily to liquor, cigarets and automobiles, yield about $1 billion annually and the current corporate tax rates yield about $2 billion.

Senate GOP Leader William F. Knowland (Calif), announcing the priority list, said it was not all inclusive and did not lessen the importance of legislation to be pushed later.

Mideast Tops List

Topping the priority list was the Mideast resolution now being rushed through House committee hearings. Knowland said he expected the resolution to clear the Senate Foreign Relations Committee within two or three weeks.

The rest of the list in the order announced by Knowland was:

Extension of excise and corporate tax rates.

Extension of the refugee bill to clarify the status of Hungarian

Hungarian Rebels Fleeing into Hills

VIENNA (UP)—Hundreds of Hungarian patriots facing arrest and possibly death under the new Red reign of terror are fleeing into the trackless forests, swamps and mountains to join die - hard freedom - fighter bands, refugees said today.

Hungarians who risked their lives to cross the Austrian frontier to escape the return to the "proletarian dictatorship" in their homeland also reported renewed fighting between partisan bands and Russian troops.

Clashes between Hungarian patriots and Red army troops have increased in the past 24 hours, according to the newly-arrived refugees. They said the heaviest fighting took place in the rugged country centered around Pecs. Pecs on the Yugoslav frontier was a rebel stronghold in the revolution crushed by Soviet steel.

Open New Purge

The pro-Russian regime of Janos Kadar announced Monday a new purge of opponents. The cleanup was expected to hit members of the Hungarian parliament as well as die-hard patriots.

The Hungarian refugees said it was estimated some 10,000 Hungarian patriots are holding out against Soviet and Communist Hungarian forces in the outlying provinces. Rebel bands were said to be active in the Bakony Forest in western Hungary, the Matra Mountains in northeast Hungary, and in the swamp lands along the Hungarian-Yugoslav border.

The refugees said the partisans would be able to hold out indefinitely in their almost - inaccessible strongholds. They said the freedom fighters are provided with food by peasants and farmers and obtain weapons and ammunition by raids of Red army supply columns.

Peoples Gas Co. Rate Hearings Underway Today

PITTSBURGH (UP)—The City of Pittsburgh asked the Public Utility Commission today to disallow the Peoples Natural Gas Co. request for higher rates.

Attorney Martin Bennett, representing the city, argued at a hearing before PUC Examiner Maurice Claster, that the utility used inaccurate cost trend factors in supporting its petition to increase rates for its 242,000 customers in 13 Western Pennsylvania counties.

The Peoples rate case has been pending since last April when it requested permission to charge an additional 50 cents a month for the first 1,000 cubic feet and 3 cents more for each additional 1,000 feet. The PUC hs suspended the effective date of the increase, originally set for last June 2, to March 2.

Peoples contends it needs higher rates because of increased labor and production costs. Bennett argued that the utility failed to take into consideration improved well drilling and other technological advances have held well drilling costs down despite labor cost increases.

The city of Johnstown also has filed objections to the proposed rate boosts.

Suspect in Attempted Church Looting Nabbed

A recent inmate of Western Penitentiary, Stephen J. Herman, of Brownsville, yesterday waived his burglary and larceny cases to court when taken before Squire Ralph Wise, of Claysville, by State Police.

Herman, who was released from the penitentiary just 10 months ago, was caught in a Lincoln Hill service station in the early morning hours last week. He was formally charged with two Lincoln Hill and one Claysville service station burglaries.

He is also charged with throwing a brick or stone through the window of St. Mary's Catholic Church, of Second street and McKee avenue, Monessen, last Dec. 13, in a burglary attempt.

Ironically, a charge of burglary of the same church back in 1946 was one of the numerous charges against Herman when he was sent to the penitentiary for from 17½ to 35 years by Washington County courts.

He was freed last February after a legal battle that consumed several years and went all the way up to the Supreme Court.

At the time of his parole there was testimony that Herman suffered from a heart condition, but State Police said yesterday that Herman, surprised in the alleged burglary attempt and scared and shaking when brought to the police barracks, gave no overt signs of a serious heart condition under these trying circumstances.

He was taken to the Washington County jail following yesterday's hearing

Democrat in Protest At 'Doctrine' Parley

WASHINGTON (UP) — A Democratic member of the House Foreign Affairs Committee stalked out of a closed-door Middle East meeting with Secretary of State John Foster Dulles today charging that the administration was trying to "tie the committee's hands" with confidential information.

Rep. Wayne L. Hays (D-Ohio) said he left the session in protest against taking secretly testimony which he believed the American people are entitled to have about President Eisenhower's request for authority to send troops to the Middle East if necessary to keep Russia out.

Hays said Committee Chairman Thomas S. Gordon (D-Ill) declined to recognize him to make a formal protest against taking Dulles' testimony in secret.

"So I just said what I had to say anyway, and left," Hays told reporters.

"I don't believe Dulles ought to be allowed to hide behind closed doors to answer embarrassing questions. It's a clear case of trying to tie the committee's hands. Even if you get the answers you can't use them because the information was given in an executive session."

Hays' walkout came as President Eisenhower urged Republican congressional leaders at a White House legislative conference to put his Middle East resolution at the top of their priority list for early action.

Senate Republican Leader William F. Knowland (Calif) said after the White House session he expects the Mideast resolution to clear the Senate Foreign Relations Committee within two or three weeks. Presumably this included action by the Senate Armed Services Committee which will start joint hearings with the Foreign Relations group next week.

But Chairman Richard B. Russell (D-Ga) of the Senate Armed Services Committee said that Congress will not be "stampeded" into hasty action on the proposal.

There also were mounting demands in Congress for putting some time limit on the President's request authority to use U.S. funds, and if necessary, troops in the Middle East.

In addition to a time limit on the authority to use U.S. armed forces, Knowland warned President Eisenhower Monday that the

$74,441 Bill for Trout Killings By Penn State

HARRISBURG (UP) — Legal departments of several state agencies today tried to determine who should pay the $74,441 bill involved in the Centre County stream pollution which killed 147,072 trout.

Pennsylvania State University recently accepted responsibility for the fish destruction that occurred in a tributary of Spring Creek near the university when sodium cyanide from a U.S. Navy research laboratory on the campus got into the water.

Commission President Stanley Smith said after a meeting of the agency Monday it was "uncertain" whether the commission will be reimbursed for the loss. Gov. George M. Leader said recently the federal government may be asked to pay some of the damages because the pollution came from a Navy installation.

Smith said the commission expected damages amounting to $100,000, but some 30,000 fish originally believed dead were taken from Benner Spring Creek and saved by commission workers.

California Bus Line Granted Fare Increase

HARRISBURG (UP)—The Public Utility Commission has granted fare increases to three western Pennsylvania bus lines, effective this month.

The McKeesport Transit Co. will eliminate a 12½ cent token and hike school fares to 10 cents on Jan. 14 in McKeesport, East Pittsburgh, Turtle Creek and Patton Twp., all in Allegheny County. The line will continue the present 15 cent cash fare except on the Turtle Creek - Patton Twp. route where the charge will go up to 20 cents.

The Ohio River Motor Coach Co., Ambridge, will levy a blanket five cent cash and round trip fare increase between Aliquippa and Pittsburgh on Jan. 16. Five-trip and commuter tickets will be boosted two to four cents.

The California Transit Co. will adopt a five cent fare increase on Jan. 17 on its lines serving Washington and Fayette counties.

Kelley Denies His Retirement

Congressman Augustine B. Kelley, Democrat from Westmoreland County, today informed Monessen Democratic leaders that any report that he may retire after completing his present term in Congress in "false."

Kelley, 73, was elected to his ninth two-year term last November.

Former Valley Resident Held

A former Charleroi resident now residing in Finleyville, James Cowell, yesterday waived extradition rights before Washington County Judge Roy I. Carson and was returned to Ohio to face "bad check" charges.

He was arrested in Washington on a fugitive from justice warrant and posted $500 cash bond pending the hearing.

One of the charges against Cowell involved a check for $196. He was taken back to Ohio by a member of the Ohio State Police and the sheriff of Belmont County, O., where Cowell lived until three weeks ago.

Sen. William F. Knowland

Action by Sen. Knowland Seen as Presidency Bid

WASHINGTON (UP) — Senate Republican Leader William F. Knowland's decision to retire from the Senate prompted speculation today he will make a bid for the presidency in 1960.

The 48 - year - old Californian stunned his Senate colleagues and caught California political leaders by surprise in announcing Monday that he will not seek reelection when his current term expires in 1958.

Some senators quickly concluded that Knowland, a veteran of 11 years in the Senate, will try to win the California governorship in 1958 and use it as a stepping stone to the White House in 1960.

Knowland had planned to seek the Republican presidential nomination last year before Mr. Eisenhower announced his intention to seek a second term. After the President made known his intentions, Knowland withdrew.

The constitutional prohibition against presidential third terms will prevent Mr. Eisenhower from running again.

In California, State Controller Robert C. Kirkwood, a Republican, said he would run for Knowland's Senate seat in 1958. He said his political philosophy is

Steve Nelson Having Time Finding Lawyer

PITTSBURGH (UP)—Steve Nelson and his pals are looking for a needle in a haystack.

They are seeking an attorney, but one has been as hard to find as the proverbial needle.

Nelson and three other Communists told their hard luck story to Federal Judge Rabe F. Marsh in U.S. District Court Monday.

The four have been looking for an attorney to defend them in the new trials they won after the U.S. Supreme Court knocked out their Smith Act convictions because of "tainted" testimony by Joseph Mazzei, a witness against them.

Nelson told Judge Marsh he had visited 11 attorneys but was turned down either because of lack of sufficient funds or because the attorneys "didn't want the case."

The same story was related by Nelson's fellow Communists, Ben Careathers, James Dolsen and William Albertson.

Judge Marsh said that "if by next week the Bar Association doesn't appoint counsel and you cannot obtain counsel, I will do so." He set Jan. 14 as the deadline.

Darcy Case Will Face Study by GOP Legislators

HARRISBURG (UP) — The Republican-controlled General Assembly today got off to a fast start in its plans to investigate various phases of the administration of Democratic Gov. George M. Leader.

Five Republican assemblymen introduced a resolution calling for a joint Senate-House investigation of the activities of the state Pardons Board—with accent on the controversial Darcy case, which resulted in commutation of the death sentence of three convicted Philadelphia killers.

Although the first working sessions of the General Assembly Monday were comparatively short—an hour in the Senate and two hours in the House of Representatives—they also featured:

1. Introduction of proposed constitutional amendments to authorize a $150,000,000 bonus for Korean War veterans.

2. Unanimous Senate confirmation of Philadelphia attorney Thomas D. McBride as the state's new attorney general.

3. A hassle on the House floor by Philadelphia assemblymen over the method in which the Republican majority reorganized the chamber's standing committees.

4. The naming of the standing committees of both chambers.

Form Committee

Republican leaders previously had announced plans to make the Darcy case and the Pardons Board their first target of inquiry. The resolution would authorize an eight-member committee, evenly divided between the Senate and House and armed with the power of subpena, to inquire into the board's actions in the Darcy and other cases.

"The opinion prevails in many quarters that political considerations influenced the action of the Board of Pardons in this (Darcy) and in other recent cases," the resolution said.

The committee would report its findings to the General Assembly within 60 days of the authorization of the investigation.

A separate bill introduced in the House would require the publication of reasons for recommending pardons of criminals.

The commutations granted David Darcy, Harold Foster and Harry Zietz became one of the top issues in the election campaigns last year after Republicans charged "sinister influences" were behind the board's action. The three men were convicted of slaying a bystander during a Bucks County tavern holdup but court appeals stayed their executions for seven years.

Bonus Introduced

The proposed bonus for about 335,000 Korean War veterans was introduced in both chambers with both specifying that payments could not be made until the lawmakers enacted tax legislation to cover the cost. Passage by the current General Assembly would put the proposal up to a general referendum of the electorate next November. It passed the last Legislature.

The Senate vote on confirmation of McBride was 48-0. Leader's appointment of the former Philadelphia bar chancellor to succeed former Attorney General Herbert B. Cohen has drawn praise from both Republicans and Democrats. Cohen was elected to the state Supreme Court last November.

Burglars Sought For Thefts at Friedland's Shop

Monessen police today are on the lookout for the burglar or burglars who broke into Friedland's Fashion Shop at 515 Donner avenue sometime over the weekend and again last night or this morning.

They took $228 from a cash register on the first visit and then helped themselves to $15.85 on the second trip.

According to Chief of Police Michael Kuvinka, Joseph Friedland, owner, discovered the first burglary when he opened the store yesterday morning at 10 o'clock. He said the burglary took place between 6 p. m. Saturday and yesterday morning.

Friedland said there was $770 left in the register over the weekend. For some mysterious reason, however, the burglars took only $228. On the second visit they took only $15.85 from a register containing $22.

Police withheld information yesterday morning until they could investigate several suspects. They are questioning more suspects today, Kuvinka stated.

Entrance to the store on both occasions was made through the cellar trap door.

Friedland says the money is not covered by insurance.

Integration Forces to Meet

Bus Drivers Given Powers in Ordinance Passed in Tallahassee

ATLANTA (UP) — Negro leaders of bus integration drives in three key cities have called a southwide meeting in Atlanta this week to spur their movement and to discuss the problem of racial violence.

The two-day meeting starting Jan. 10 was announced by the Revs. M. L. King of Montgomery, Ala.; C. K. Steele of Tallahassee, Fla., and F. L. Shuttlesworth of Birmingham, Ala.

They invited leaders of other drives to end bus segregation and from other "troubled areas" of the South. They will discuss how to spur their campaign. Also on this agenda is the subject "violence directed toward the Negro communities."

The Tallahassee City Commission on Monday hurriedly adopted ordinance giving bus drivers the responsibility of assigning bus seats so as to "distribute the weight of passengers" and to "preserve good order."

The ordinance did not mention bus segregation, which Negroes in Tallahassee have tried to end by mass flouting of a local seating law.

The buses remained idle by an emergency order issued by Gov. Leroy Collins after an outbreak of violence.

Collins said he believes buses can be integrated peacefully but that desegregation of Florida schools will not be possible within the "foreseeable future."

The Florida governor attacked Negro leaders in Talahassee for using "boycotts, ultimatums and peremptory demands" in their campaign to end segregated seating on buses in the Florida capital city.

Collins said he is "convinced that the average white citizen does not object to non-segregated seating on buses any more than he objects to riding the same elevators with negroes or patronizing the same stores."

The priority list obviously represented the key recommendations to be included in President Eisenhower's State of the Union message which goes to Congress Thursday.

M. Harvey Taylor made only five changes in the chairmanships of that chamber's standing committees. The switches, necessitated by deaths or failure to seek or win reelection of several Senate Republicans, came in the Elections, Insurance, Judiciary General, Mines and Mining and State Government committees.

The House wrangle developed when the GOP leadership announced the merger of several committees to avoid "spreading the lawmakers too thin" on committee appointments. One of the merged committees was the First Class Cities and Counties, which in the past received bills affecting Philadelphia.

Philadelphia area members spearheaded the vain argument against the incorporation of the committee with ones handling legislation affecting Pittsburgh and Scranton. Philadelphia Democrats were joined by Philadelphia Republican Rep. John N. Pomeroy, Jr. in their protest that the move "was not fair" to the city. They contended Philadelphia has numerous problems which would not receive adequate consideration under the new committee set-up.

The other two committee deletions in the House were Child Care and Workmen's Compensation, both of which were merged with other committees.

The Senate recessed until Jan. 22 but the House returns today at 10:30 a.m. Both chambers will reconvene Tuesday, Jan 22, because many of the lawmakers plan to attend the inaugural of President Eisenhower the previous day.

No Tax Increase for Washington County

Washington County Commissioners today continued working on the 1957 county budget and are almost certain there will be no tax increase.

Last week, Commissioner John Mazza said he was unalterably opposed to an increase in the millage. Yesterday, Commissioner J. W. Lane said.

It's too early yet to say anything about the millage for 1957 until the figures for 1956 are completed and the picture can be analyzed. I might be in favor of an increase of perhaps a half-mill but can't say until we get a better picture."

At the same time, Board Chairman Francis E. Pettit said outright that it was too early to make any comments on the prospects of increasing the millage in 1957.

Lane said, however, that he felt Mazza was in error in estimating the county deficit for 1956 at several hundred thousand dollars and indicated that he felt the final official figures would not show the 1956 picture that bad.

On the matter of blanket raises for employes in 1957, Lane said he felt like Mazza that a general raise was not warranted.

"It should be handled on an individual adjustment basis," Lane said. "Some employes are definitely underpaid, while others are not, and we expect to make some adjustments."

Preliminary work is still being carried out on the county's fiscal document. Reports are ready to be sent to various department heads and officials of the county, showing their 1956 figures, and the officials will return the reports with requests for their 1957 appropriations.

It is from these estimates the Commissioners will get the final figures. In order to move the budget work along, the Commissioners yesterday detailed W. W. Croner, present head of elections and registration in the county to assist Chief Clerk Joseph A. DiFilippo with the preliminary budget work.

Croner, a former chief clerk for the county, will take the place in this instance of the former county statistician, G. J. Dentel, who left the county payroll last year and moved from Washington County.

Peterson May Quit

WASHINGTON (UP)—A high administration official says Civil Defense Administrator Val Peterson may resign "within a reasonable time."

Benson Before Committee, but Conditions Change

WASHINGTON (UP)—Secretary of Agriculture Ezra T. Benson discussed farm policy at a congressional hearing for almost five hours—and it wasn't a bit like old times.

This time nobody on the House Agriculture Committee shook his finger in Benson's face and shouted that he was selling the American farmer down the river.

There was no denunciation of the administration's flexible farm price support program from Democrats who in the past used Benson as a sort of whipping boy. In fact, the once-hot issue of farm price supports was hardly mentioned.

Benson appeared before the committee Monday to review operations of the multi-billion dollar "soil bank" program launched last year to cut crop surpluses. He ran into considerable criticism about his handling of the program, but most of it was good natured.

The new and relaxed atmosphere reflected the feeling of Democratic farm leaders that the old issue of rigid vs. flexible price supports is dormant if not dead.

Knowland

"wholly in accord with the great Eisenhower movement."

Knowland, a conservative on most issues, has sometimes been at odds, as Senate GOP leader, with the President's views. But Senate Republicans again picked him as their leader for the new session of Congress which opened last week, and Knowland said he would retain the post until his retirement from the Senate.

California Gov. Goodwin J. Knight, whose term expires at the same time as Knowland's Senate term, exclaimed, "I must say I'm surprised" when informed of Knowland's decision.

Knight said he expected to discuss the development with Knowland when he comes here for President Eisenhower's Jan. 21 inauguration.

Newsmen asked Knight whether he intended to find out from Knowland whether the senator might be a GOP candidate for the California governorship.

"It's entirely up to him to discuss if he wants to." Knight replied "I won't endeavor to cross-examine him in any way."

Noncommittal On Plans

It has been widely assumed in California that Knight would run for a second term as governor. But Knight refused to say Monday night what his plans will be in 1958.

When asked if he might run for Knowland's Senate seat, he replied.

"I declined a chance to run for the Senate in 1949, and I see no reason to change my attitude."

There was speculation here, however, that Knight would be glad to change places with Knowland.

Knowland said he would retire in 1958 because he and his wife would like to be closer to his family—his three children, five grandchildren and his father, 83-year-old Joseph R. Knowland, publisher of the Oakland (Calif.) Tribune.

No one doubted that family pressures have come to bear on the heavy-set, ruddy - faced senator who was picked by the late Robert A. Taft (R-Ohio) to be Taft's successor as GOP floor leader in the Senate.

Today in Congress —

Knowland Says Senate Will Curb Filibuster

WASHINGTON (UP) — Senate GOP Leader William F. Knowland forecasts the Senate will curb its filibuster rule.

He plans to introduce a resolution Wednesday that would make it possible for two-thirds of senators present instead of two thirds of total membership to shut off debate. That would cripple one of Southern senators' main weapons against civil rights legislation.

Knowland told a news conference Monday he expects the Senate to go along with his resolution. He originally planned to introduce it during the day. He said he postponed its introduction to Wednesday to obtain "substantial bipartisan support."

Congress was in recess today. The Senate on Friday defeated 57-39 a move aimed at curbing filibusters.

Then the fight at least had to reach the floor. Now any resolution to change the rule must pass through the Senate Rules Committee where it can be bottled up permanently.

Doctrine

Democratic - controlled Congress probably will insist on divorcing the "fight-if-we-must" power from the proposed $400 million military-economic aid aspects of the program.

Knowland said he told the President late Monday that Congress might either limit his standby authority for using U.S. troops in the Middle East to a specific number of years or provide that Congress could terminate such authority at any time by a joint resolution.

He refused to say how Mr. Eisenhower reacted. But he said the President "thoroughly understands our constitutional procedures" as to revising presidential requests for legislation.

Secretary of State John Foster Dulles was called before the House Foreign Affairs Committee for a second day of questioning — this time behind closed doors — on the Middle East proposal. Also testifying was Adm. Arthur W. Radford, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

Bulganin Says Ike Doctrine Creates Threat

LONDON (UP) — Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin was quoted by Radio Moscow today as saying that the proposed Eisenhower Doctrine "can once again create a threatening state of affairs in the Near and Middle East."

The broadcast said Bulganin made the remark during a speech at a Kremlin reception Monday night in honor of a visiting East German Communist government delegation.

The speech came on the eve of today's talks between Soviet leaders and Chinese Communist Premier Chou En-lai believed aimed at halting discontent now sweeping the Red empire.

Bulganin called the U.S. plan "crude interference." He also noted that "aggressive circles of the imperialist countries" tried to destroy a previous improvement in international relations by "adventures" in Egypt and Hungary.

"They were met with a deserved repulse and their adventures . . . failed," he said.

The talks between Chou and the Kremlin leaders may influence the entire future course of world communism.

The strategy being mapped behind the Kremlin walls by leaders of the world's two largest Communist parties may determine the path of world Communism, observers said in London.

Chou Welcomed

Chou arrived in Moscow Monday with a 26-man delegation and received an ecstatic welcome from the worried men in the Kremlin who have seen their destalinization policy lead to uprisings in Poland and revolution in Hungary.

Western observers said it was obvious Chou was called in as a fireman to help extinguish the discontent that has spread from East Germany and the other satellites to North Viet Nam in Southeast Asia.

A dispatch from Warsaw said Polish leaders already were becoming apprehensive about the Moscow talks and Chou's visit to the Polish capital later this week.

Poland achieved a measure of independence for its Communist regime, but the Sino-Russian talks in the Kremlin may mean back pedaling for the Polish government, observers said in Warsaw.

One of the principal topics believed up for talks between Chou and Soviet Communist Party Boss Nikita S. Khrushchev was a new outline of relations between the Communist states. This was expected to involve a partial return to the harsh bonds of Stalinism.

Moscow dispatches indicated the two parties would seek to set up a looser version of the old Cominform which Moscow used to tie the satellites together before it was shoved to the wayside by Khrushchev's de-stalinization.

A. Michael Crouse, who is retiring Feb. 1, as superintendent of maintenance at the Page Steel and Wire Division, American Chain and Cable Co., was recently honored at a farewell party held at the Park Casino. He and Mrs. Crouse have gone to make their future home at State College.

Crouse worked at the Page plant since, Jan. 1. 1916 and was widely known among the employes, a large group of which attended the party.

William Bakker, who came to the Page plant on Feb. 20, 1956 as Crouse's assistant has assumed the superintendent duties. He was formerly employed with National Biscuit Co. and became Crouse's assistant after he announced his intentions of retiring.

He was formally appointed to the superintendency on July 1, 1956. Bakker, his wife and child make their home in Charleroi.

Paul T. Nicoden served as toastmaster for a program which consisted of group singing with Paul Shives as song leader and brief talks by Robert B. Kramer, Edith Samoda, Steve Ruby, Bakker, Harvey W. Seymour and Samuel Daugherty. Marcellus Kunkelman offered the invocation and there were several selections by a quartet composed of Richard McVicker, Frank McVicker, Paul Shives and Marcellus Kunkelman.

In behalf of the employes, Daugherty, shop foreman, presented Crouse with a wrist watch and a wallet containing a cash gift. Crouse gave a brief talk expressing his appreciation of the gift and of his associations at the plant over the years.

Emporium Blast Scene Probed By Investigators

EMPORIUM, Pa. (UP)—Seared, shattered remnants of explosive-making equipment were combed today by investigators searching for the cause of twin blasts which ripped through an explosive plant, killing three workmen.

Nine other men were hospitalized and two others suffered minor injuries Monday in the detonation of about 1,500 pounds of high explosives. The blasts demolished a nitro cotton drying building and a dynamite mixing house at the Pennsylvania Powder Co. plant near this north - central Pennsylvania community.

The concussion also damaged 12 other buildings in the sprawling plant area and shattered windows and shook foundations a mile away.

Sgt. Raymond Anderson, stationed four of the injured at Andrew Kaul Hospital in St. Mary's.

USW Candidate in Appeals to Court

PITTSBURGH (UP)—A candidate for district director of the United Steelworkers appealed to the courts today to have his name placed on the ballot for the Feb. 12 election.

Frank W. O'Brien asked Allegheny County Common Pleas Court to stop the election until his name is listed.

O'Brien charged union officials have denied him his rightful place on the ballot despite his nomination by seven locals in District 16, which represents Pittsburgh's South Side and West End plants. The union constitution requires candidates for district director receive at least five nominations.

The Jones & Laughlin millhand, in a petition filed by attorney James A. Ashton, accused president David J. McDonald and other top USW officials of "conspiring" with District 16 Director John Murray "to deliberately and wilfully deny the candidacy of (O'Brien)...to permit the re-election of defendant John Murray by having him run unopposed for the office of director of District 16."

Ashton, who worked as a millhand and was a USW member during summer vacations from law school, declared O'Brien exhausted all methods of appeal prescribed by the union constitution.

The attorney said he and O'Brien had tried to talk with McDonald and USW Secretary-Treasurer I. W. Abel but were turned away at their offices. He said he had also attempted to arrange for a hearing by the international executive board but was rebuffed.

Named with McDonald, Abel and Murray as defendants in the petition were: Howard Hague, vice president, and international tellers Robert J. McCaulley, Alfonso Murray and Ralph E. Orom, the men who counted the nominations.

Famous Farm Is Put Up for Sale

NEW YORK (UP) — Malabar Farm, made famous by author Louis Bromfield both in his books and by his experimental agricultural practices, has been put up for sale, it was announced today.

The 640-acre farm near Mansfield, Ohio, was the author's home from 1939 until his death in March of 1956.

The offering price is $145,000, according to Previews, Inc., which is handling the sale.

Natural Gas Concentrations In McKeesport

MCKEESPORT, Pa. (UP)—Dangerous concentrations of natural gas, seeping from an unknown source, are threatening the Main Street and Easler Street sections of this city of 52,000 persons.

The gas has been discovered in the basements of five homes in the area but gas company officials working with city fire and police investigators have been unable to locate the cause.

McKeesport Fire Chief James McDermott said the gas supply appears to be shifting.

"We have trapped the area extensively and have discovered gas underground in many widely separated spots," he revealed.

"But where we find gas one day, we don't find it the next. And where we have probed with 100-foot holes and not found it, it later appears."

McDermott indicated the gas may be seeping from improperly capped natural gas wells that were drilled during the boom of 1917-18.

"We plan to uncover them all, if necessary" to locate the trouble, McDermott said.

As a temporary safety measure, crewmen are digging vent holes and installing bell traps in sewers to signal the presence of the gas, the chief added.

Saudi Arabian King To Visit Eisenhower

WASHINGTON (UP) — King Saud of oil-rich Saudi Arabia will visit President Eisenhower later this month to discuss Middle Eastern problems.

Arranging for the visit was one of the latest U.S. moves to check the spread of Communist influence in the Arab world.

The influential Arab monarch is scheduled to arrive for a two-day state visit Jan. 30.

Absentee Voting Bill Introduced In State House

HARRISBURG (UP)—Absentee voting legislation for civilians and a proposal to allow 18-year-olds to cast ballots were among 31 bills in the legislative hoppers today.

Four Republicans authored two separate bills calling for amending the state Constitution to allow authorized voters to cast election ballots from out of state. Under present laws only servicemen may file absentee ballots.

Reps. Adam T. Bower (Northumberland), George W. Cooper and Joseph P. Rigby (both Allegheny), introduced House Bill No. 1 calling for the absentee voting amendment and Francis Worley (Adams) came up with a similar measure.

The proposal passed the General Assembly last session and Gov. George M. Leader urged such legislation in his recent "State of the Commonwealth" message. If approved by the current Assembly it would be placed on the November ballot for final approval by Commonwealth voters before passing into law.

Worley also authored the bill to lower the voting age to 18. The measure, a familiar one here, died in committee last session in one of its many trips before the House.

Allegheny Judge Balks At 'Being Workhorse'

PITTSBURGH (UP)—Allegheny County courtrooms reverberated today with discussion of Judge Francis J. O'Connor's announcement he would no longer hear non-jury lottery and drunken driving cases.

The County Court jurist tossed the bombshell to newsmen Monday in a hastily arranged conference in his chambers.

"I am tired of being the only judge hearing such cases and then being criticized for being either too harsh or too lenient," the judge said.

He called on the 16 Common Pleas Court and six County Court judges to "roll up their sleeves and go to work."

The announcement had immediate results. President Judge Benjamin Lencher of the County Court said he and Judge Lois McBride would hear all non-jury trials scheduled for the remainder of the month.

Been 'Workhorse'

As Judge O'Connor made his announcement, defendants and witnesses in 17 cases were crowded in his courtroom.

O'Connor told newsmen he had heard 176 similar cases during the last two weeks of December.

"I've been the workhorse here for five years, and that's enough," he said. "Frankly, I'm not going to be the patsy on these things."

The judge said he was sending back to the district attorney's office the cases he had been scheduled to hear.

"I will not hear any more non-jury lottery and drunken driving cases until my fellow judges have heard as many cases as I have," he insisted.

Asst. Dist. Atty. Wendel G. Freeland, who hurried to the courtroom when he heard of the announcement, termed the ultimatum an "open rebellion."

Judge Lencher said he had to "hold onto my chair" when the news came to him.

Judge O'Connor explained he agreed last week to continue hearing the non-jury drunken driving and lottery cases.

But, he added, "On mature reflection and on the advice of close friends, I have reconsidered and will not continue to take the brunt of an onerous burden of deciding both as judge and jury...with the knowedge that other judges are not doing the same."

Good Year Ahead

A YEAR-END statement by Allison R. Maxwell, Jr., president of Pittsburgh Steel Co., includes the welcome prediction that operations of his company, which is Monessen's largest industry and a major factor in the economy of the Monongahela Valley, will continue at capacity levels at least into the second quarter of the year. Beyond that, Mr. Maxwell is promising only that operations will be at a high level throughout the year.

This forecast conforms pretty much with the generally accepted outlook for the steel industry as a whole. The persistent demand for more and more steel of nearly all kinds has been one of the largest influences in the unprecedented period of prosperity which the country has enjoyed in the past four or five years.

Pittsburgh Steel's management has wisely prepared the company to participate in the industry's peak production. Large investments have been made in the Monessen and Allenport plants, enabling the company to produce an entirely new line of products as well as to increase production of basic steel. The latest of a series of major improvement programs is now nearly completed in the Monessen works.

Not the least of the bright portents for the future, as Mr. Maxwell points out in his statement, is the new three-year contract with the United Steelworkers union. Under the terms of this contract there can be no strikes by this union before 1959. This provides the kind of stability which the steel industry has never enjoyed and which enables management to plan sales and operations with much more assurance.

The fact that this community's largest employer is entering the new year with such prospects should be encouraging to other businesses, to our governmental agencies and to our civic leadership. It means that they can all move forward with confidence.

Good Candidate

THIS YEAR'S primary elections are still four months away, and there is no need for thoughtful voters to rush to conclusions now. As always, the arguments of the campaign deserve a hearing.

However, we cannot avoid expressing, even at this stage, our pleasure at the announcement by Attorney Avra N. Pershing, Jr., of Greensburg, that he will be a candidate for common pleas judge in Westmoreland County.

Mr. Pershing is the kind of man — and the kind of lawyer — whom the voters should seek to put on the bench at every opportunity.

Well-trained, thoroughly competent in all phases of the law, having well rounded interests in matters outside his profession and, above all, with a dispassionate concern for impartial justice—these, in our opinion, are the attributes of the ideal judge. And Mr. Pershing exemplifies them all.

The campaign for the two judgeships to be filled in Westmoreland County this year promises to be an interesting and vigorous affair. We expect to have other comments upon it from time to time.

But the candidacy of Mr. Pershing, we believe, is the best piece of political news Westmoreland County has heard in a long time. And we do not mind stating thus early our hope that he is nominated by both parties.

Don't Let It Happen

AFTER what happened in Donora a few weeks ago, it is hard to repress a shudder at the thought that something of the sort may be about to happen in Monessen.

It is reported that the Pittsburgh Steel Co. and its subsidiary railroad, the Monessen Southwestern, have reached an impasse in contract negotiations with Lodge 447, Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, which represents about 170 employes of the railroad. The services of the Federal Mediation Service have been requested in order to avoid a strike which could occur after the expiration of the present contract Jan. 17.

The specific issues in the dispute have not been revealed to the public by either the company or Lodge 447. So the public can hardly weigh the merits of the two sides.

But the example of Donora should be on the minds of all concerned. There, when 80 plant railroaders went on strike, more than 4,500 other employes also were laid off because the steel and zinc mills could not operate. And Donora experienced an economic disaster.

It is hardly overstating the matter to say that few disputed issues could be worth this kind of sacrifice on the part of innocent families and communities. Let's hope in the present case that the parties concerned regard their affairs in this perspective.

Merry-Go-Round—

Sen. Morse Pokes Fun At Nixon

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — A brief, pointed exchange between two men who don't love each other occurred when Sen. Wayne Morse of Oregon took the oath before Vice President Nixon.

Nixon had gone out to Oregon twice to defeat Senator Morse. The campaign against him was considered the "Yale Game" of all the Senate elections. A member of the Eisenhower cabinet had resigned to run against Morse.

Mr. Pearson

So, when Morse came up to the Senate rostrum to take the oath and shake hands with the Vice President, he said:

"Mr. Vice President, I want to thank you for those speeches you made in Oregon. They helped elect me."

Mr. Nixon gulped, then recovered quickly.

"Well, I'm glad they helped," he shot back with a smile.

"They certainly did," replied Morse.

"You rolled with the punches," chuckled Nixon.

"And you threw a few yourself," said Morse.

It was all over in 20 seconds. No one except the two men knew what had happened.

Note — Though there was a slight note of sarcasm in Morse's voice, he halfway meant what he said — that Nixon's speeches had helped. For, when Nixon first came to Oregon he gave a pep talk to GOP leaders at Salem urging them to get out and get Morse. "Don't pay any attention to issues," he said, "get out the vote." Later ex-Secretary of Interior Doug McKay got this confused. "Issues are not important," he told the audience. "It's the votes that count."

Morse hung this around McKay's neck. In speech after speech he said: "I want to let you in on a big secret. You know the position of my opponent, that issues aren't important. Well, at 2 a. m. on Nov. 7 he's going to discover that issues were important after all and that he's going ack to that struck auto agency of his in Salem to sell Cadillacs again."

Roughing-up Dulles

Democratic senators are really throwing the hooks into John Foster Dulles on his Mid East policy, and doing it deliberately. Shortly before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee met with Dulles last week, Senate Leader Lyndon Johnson phoned four members of the committee — Mansfield of Montana, Sparkman of Alabama, Fulbright of Arkansas, and Humphrey of Minnesota — advising them not to pull any punches.

They didn't. On top of this Johnson attended the closed-door session himself and wrote notes to the senators suggesting questions to ask the Secretary of State.

Democrats were ired at the way the administration was forcing them to take a stand on the "Eisenhower doctrine" by the barrage of publicity leaked to the press in advance. They gave Dulles such a rough time that at one point he said:

"There's only one man responsible for the foreign policy of the United States — the President."

"Then why are you coming to us with this resolution?" the senators cracked back. "If the President has the responsibility, let him exercise it."

Backstage with Nixon

Vice President Nixon's surprise statement that he believed the present filibuster rule "unconstitutional" actually had been carefully worked out in advance. The people who worked with him were none other than some of the most liberal Democrats in the Senate, led by Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota.

Humphrey went to Nixon in advance of the showdown vote, asked point blank if Nixon would answer a "point of order" if it were asked of him during the debate on ending filibusters. A point of order is a parliamentary inquiry which is not binding on the Senate.

"Don't get the wrong idea," said Humphrey, "we're not trying to put you on the spot. But if you give the right answer it may make another Abraham Lincoln out of you."

Nixon listened sympathetically.

"If you give the right answer," Humphrey continued, "we think it would influence some Republican votes and that's why we're asking you."

Nixon discussed the matter carefully, indicated he would probably give the right answer. Later he did. His statement should have far-reaching effects on Negro voters if he runs for President in 1960.

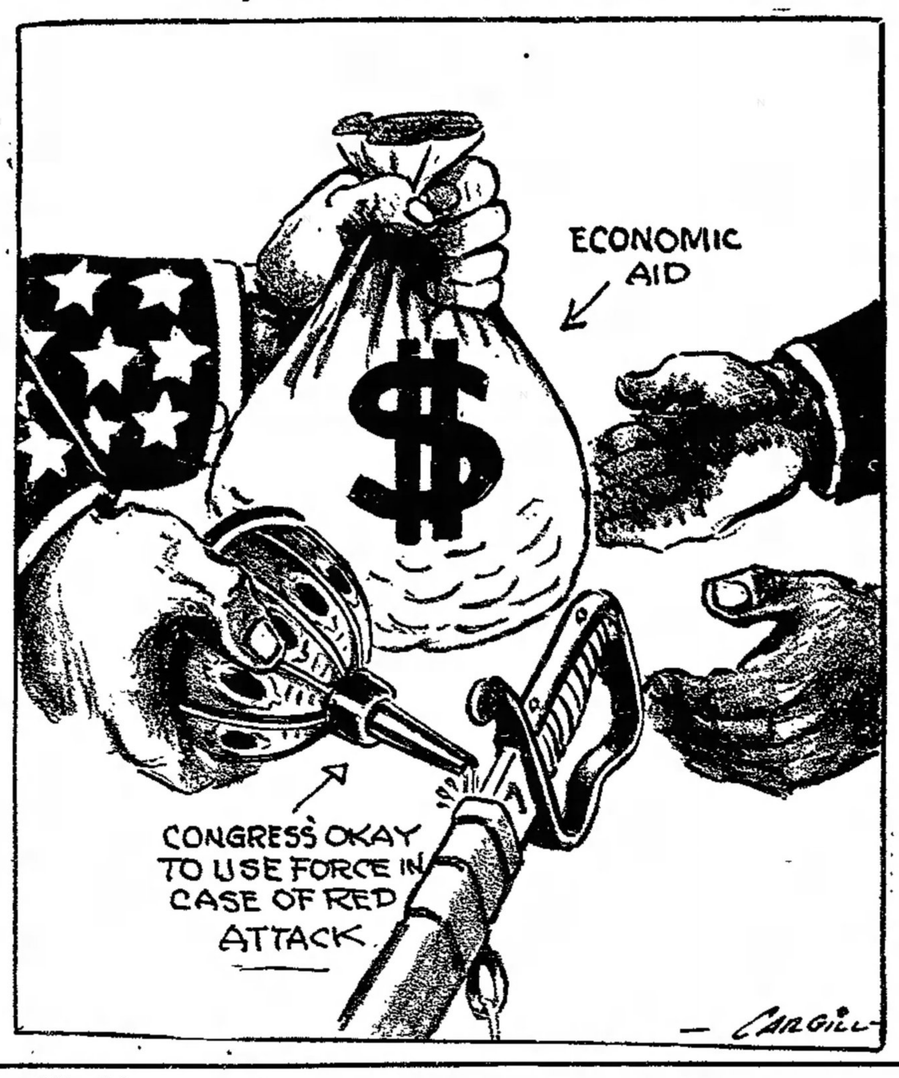
Proposed Middle East Grease Job



From Washington—

Behind the President's Action

By ROSCOE DRUMMOND

President Eisenhower's personally delivered appeal to Congress to support him in his new Middle East policy raises three questions which will have to be answered in the affirmative if Congress is to concur.

Mr. Drummond

Mr. Eisenhower has formally asked Congress to join him in warning the Soviet Union that the United States will defend the Middle East, with force if necessary, against Communist aggression. It seems to me that the central questions which this request poses are these:

Question — Does the President need to go to Congress to establish the policy that the U. S. will resist Communist aggression in the Middle East? Can't the President do this on his own?

The Argument — The honest answer, I believe, is that the President could do it wholly at his own initiative but prefers to act in concert with Congress because he believes it wiser and more effective. The Monroe Doctrine, warning against further colonization in the Western Hemisphere by any nation, was proclaimed unilaterally at the direction of the President in 1823. But there are differences. It was the British navy which was then underwriting the Monroe Doctrine for us and it was many years before the U. S. could put teeth into it. President Truman acted along to defend Korea in 1950, but American troops were being overrun and, therefore, a state of war existed.

Wants Support

I have the feeling that because Mr. Eisenhower is a military man he is especially determined to take no avoidable action that might lead to war without the participation of Congress, which alone has the power to declare war. In any event, he has clearly concluded that, whatever his constitutional authority, is is wisdom to invite Congress to share in the decision to undertake a vast new commitment which, if it were put in treaty form, like NATO, would require Senate ratification.

It took quite a while for the Monroe Doctrine to acquire prestige and potency. We want our warning to the Kremlin to possess prestige and potency instantly, and the united voice of the whole American government — the President and Congress — can give this warning its maximum authority. The purpose of the resolution is to remove all doubt from the minds of the Kremlin about what to expect if Moscow turns to aggression in the Middle East. The voice of Congress, together with the voice of the President, would undoubtedly do most to remove that doubt.

The resolution commits both parties in Congress to sharing the responsibility for future actions by the President which cannot be foreseen under circumstances which cannot be anticipated. A President willing to share his initiative with Congress is a President who thereby earns extra confidence from Congress.

Question — Is it necessary for the U. S. to exert direct influence against potential Communist aggression in the Middle East?

The Argument — Washington officials are convinced that the situation in the Middle East today is comparable to the situation in Greece and Turkey in 1947 when Britain could no longer serve as a protective shield to these nations. If President Truman and Congress had not sheltered these countries, they would be Soviet satellites by now. Britain and France are today in no position to shield the Middle East.

Question — Is the resolution likely to accomplish its purpose?

The Argument — Some criticize it because it doesn't accomplish everything. To prevent outside aggression does not resolve the disturbed relations among the nations of the Middle East. But it eases one threat which helps to deal with other problems. It provides no complete protection against Communist subversion within the area. But is there any complete protection against Communist subversion? A nation protected from overt aggression is in a better position to resist covert aggression. Further, the administration believes that the Soviet Union cannot long maintain a satellite regime with which it does not have geographical contact and whose people are as deeply and religiously anti-Communist as the Moslems.

The Peoples Forum—

Ferencz Answers Chief

To the Editor:

Because our Chief of Police has seen fit to discuss my suspension in the columns of your paper instead of before City Council, I feel it is only fair that I answer in like manner.

The truth is that I, as the arresting officer in a case involving a violation of our State Motor Code, was trying to bring it to a successful conclusion by following the procedure set forth by state law.

As Chief of Police, I was always very careful about the proper procedure in Motor Code violations, and directed the arresting officers to file the informations with the alderman within whose jurisdiction the violations occurred, unless the alderman was ill or otherwise unavailable — this is an exception permitted by law.

My suspension by Mayor Parente was petty, unjust and obviously politically inspired. (Our Chief admits that "It's politics").

Michael Ferencz

(Editor's Note — Patrolman Ferencz, a former Chief of Police, was suspended for three days by Chief Michael Kuvinka for "disobedience". Arresting a motorist for a traffic violation, Ferencz made the information before Alderman Marion Reamer of the Second Ward, in whose jurisdiction the offense occurred. Kuvinka claimed it has been the traditional "privilege" of the Chief to designate magistrates to handle traffic cases. Miss Reamer, in a letter to Kuvinka last week, cited the state law which provides that offenders be taken before the "nearest available magistrate".)

Ike Loses Confidence In Power of U. N.

By LYLE C. WILSON

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower's explanation of his new Middle East doctrine reads like a statement of failing confidence in the United Nations as a protector of world peace. That's a new tune.

Mr. Wilson

The President's message to Congress outlining the doctrine was heavy with pledges to act within the framework of the United Nations. Reliance upon the United Nations appeared, however, to be more lip service than real.

Mr. Eisenhower reviewed recent U.N. efforts to deal with the Soviet Union's invasion of Hungary and felt compelled to report to Congress that in light of events in Hungary the United Nations is not a dependable protector of world peace — not, that is, when Communism is the aggressor.

Kremlin Enjoys Veto

Moscow enjoys a built-in veto to prevent U.N. Security Council action against any commotion in which the Kremlin's men may choose to engage. The Security Council's quick action against Communist aggression in Korea in June of 1950 was a lucky fluke. The Russian council member had abandoned the council and had no opportunity to veto organization of a U.N. military command for Korea.

The Soviet Union was present and voting, however, when the Security Council sought to require withdrawal of Russian armed forces from Hungary. Having cited that frustrating fact in his doctrine message, Mr. Eisenhower put it this way:

"And it (the Soviet Union) has shown callous indifference to the recommendations, even the censure, of the General Assembly. The United Nations can always be helpful, but it cannot be a wholly dependable protector of freedom when the ambitions of the Soviet Union are involved.

"Under all the circumstances I have laid before you, a greater responsibility now devolves upon the United States."

Veto Power Crippling:

There it is in some 60-odd words: The Soviet Union veto power has made the United Nations undependable as the protector of world peace. Therefore, the United States must assume greater responsibilities.

The responsibilities in this instance involve the possibility of a hot war in which the United States, with such allies as might pitch in on their own, would oppose the armed might of the Soviet Union in the Middle East.

Mr. Eisenhower's Saturday message to Congress was a request for blank check authority to make hot war in that area and upon that potential enemy without further reference to Congress.

Money Cost High

There is no knowing whether the United States ever will have to make good on the hot war phase of the Eisenhower doctrine.

The money phase of the doctrine, however, already is in the planning stage. The one certain factor in the new doctrine is that it will cost a lot of money. The down payment will be $400 million, plus whatever may be spent from available funds during the remainder of the current fiscal year.

That means that taxes will remain where they are for a long time to come, probably as long as two or three years.

Women Have Special Role to Play in Life

By MARGARET LATROBE

Sometimes I think every woman should own one flouncy crinoline petticoat and wear it a while every day. Just so she won't forget who and what she is — a woman. More than that, a feminine creature who is proud and content to be one.

Mrs. Latrobe

Look, girls. We have proved that point about "anything men can do, we can do better." We put on trousers, went out in the business world and showed how superior we really were. Men, on the other hand, revealed that "anything women could do, they could do better." Some of them took over mothering little ones while the real Mamma McCoy was working late downtown. They snapped through the cooking and cleaning chores, tenderly tucked the tots in bed, and finished a row of knitting — just to prove that, too, wasn't so difficult.

With what result? With women becoming masculine in viewpoint, men becoming feminine in viewpoint, a dangerous emotional mix-up evolved. No one knew exactly who or what he was, there didn't seem to be any definite core or character to the family, and a jolly jamboree of musical chairs went on. Whoever landed in the last empty seat, was boss. With masculine and feminine roles so nearly equalized, what difference who made decisions?

Ladies, let us exercise women's "rights" to the fullest, remembering always we are women. Now that we have proved our abilities in man's world, let's reaffirm our feminine abilities in woman's world.

Is that world confined to laundry lists and flapping about the house in aimless apathy? How ridiculous! Woman's job, her real one, is more difficult than any man's — which may be a hidden reason for her occasional rejection of it. She is the link between yesterday and tomorrow. Through her flows the stream of the human story. It is she who must give it warmth and perspective, showing all who look to her that she believes being a woman is a special blessing. That living a woman's life carries a special reward, and one she is well aware of.

Woman can and will reach great heights — as wives, mothers, executives, artists and scientists. They must remain women, they must retain their feminine characteristics as a proud banner of identity. Men cannot be the husbands and fathers, nor providers and protectors of their families which is their main role, unless they see and accept it as masculine prerogative.

"My Fair Lady" is a play to remember. "My Fair Lady" is a concept to cherish, particularly if you are one. And lady, if you are one of those aggressive, assertive types, step into a crinoline petticoat. It will help you feel like the lady you really are.

ON THE BALL

By ALLEN KLINE

Monessen Has Dominated Cage Scene

There's simply no disputing that Monessen High ranks as the all-time Mon Valley basketball champion. Down through the years, the Greyhounds have overwhelmed all league opposition with the exception of arch-rival Charleroi. The Hounds lead in the all-time Cougar series with 42 wins, compared to 31 setbacks. Here's the breakdown against other valley foes: California, 58-4; Donora, 61-15; Brownsville, 59-6; Monongahela, 65-9 and Bellmar, 4-0. In all the Hounds have won 289 games against those schools while losing just 65. Statistically, that means Monessen wins more than 80 per cent of its league assignments.

* * *

On the subject of winning, how about Coach George Chacko's Charleroi Junior High cagers? They've now won 93 straight games at home . . . Ed Roebuck, the Brooklyn relief pitcher who started his diamond career at Brownsville High, may wind up wearing St. Louis Cardinal colors this season. General Manager Frank Lane reportedly wants Roebuck and Lane usually winds up getting what he wants . . . Ed Slosky, former California High and Indiana University football star, is now serving a hitch with the Eighth Army stationed in Japan.

* * *

Addis Taking Knocks at N. Huntingdon

Ed Addis, the former Brownsville High basketball coach, is taking his knocks during his first campaign at the North Huntingdon helm. His quint has lost seven straight games after winning the first two . . . Rumor has it that the Pittsburgh Pirates are dangling outfielder Lee Walls as trade bait. There's been nothing more than nibbles so far, though . . . The football rules committee for the nation's high schools has seriously considered a change which would permit the quarterback to confer with the coach during timeouts. The intent of the rule is to solve illegal coaching from the sidelines.

* * *

The Brownsville High basketballers weren't the only visitors to make a nice impression at the MHS gym last week. The Brownie cheerleaders, dolled up in blue and white outfits, raised a few eyebrows, too! . . . Incidentally, Coach Alex Barantovich feels Brownsville should ask the WPIAL for a spot in some other basketball section. "Let's face it," says Barantovich, "Brownsville doesn't belong with Monessen or Charleroi. We might score an upset once in a while, but we seldom have any hopes of winning the Section title. It isn't fair to our players to face such discouraging odds, year after year."

Story on Bob Baker in Ring Magazine

The current issue of Ring Magazine has a big story on Pittsburgh's Bob Baker, stating that he has everything to win the heavyweight title but desire . . . Baker, by the way, will get his last chance to prove himself on Friday when he meets Harold Carter in a 10-round televised bout in Madison Square Garden. If Baker boots that one, he'll be dropped back to "second-rate" status . . . That big basketball win Perryopolis scored over Irwin the other night indicates that the Black Knights may be in for a rough time this season. At least two other Section 17 teams are rated on a par with Perry. Thus Irwin's long-time basketball supremacy may be nearing an end.

World Series Film Reveals 'Cheating'

By OSCAR FRALEY

NEW YOK (UP) — Baseball fans can rest assured today that the New York Yankees won the World Series, Don Larsen actually pitched a perfect game—and nobody knows for certain whether Jackie Robinson will play ball next season.

All of these points were settled, or not settled, as the case may be, at the first official showing the official World Series films. Yogi Berra was on hand as one of the heroes of the piece but Robinson didn't show, probably in deference to Don Newcombe.

Newcombe didn't do any better this time around but among the issues settled were

1. The double play is the best joke since traveling salesmen quit visiting farmhouses.

2. Casey Stengel never, but never, is caught with his mouth closed.

3. Mickey Mantle is no Joe Di Maggio with a glove.

4. Country Slaughter was no "goat" when he missed Jackie Robinson's liner in the Yankee loss of the sixth game.

5. And Yogi Berra is a great bear hugger.

Film Available for Showing

Six hundred prints of the series, a 40-minute show, may be borrowed from Director Lew Fonseca at 64 Jackson Blvd., Chicago, or through any major league ball club. And they are well worth the free viewing because you'll see things you didn't even see in person.

Like those so-called double plays. A half dozen are shown throughout the film and, in every instance, the relay man is well off the bag when he takes the throw and makes the relay. Proving long-time charges that the DP has become an "automatic" call, and "cheating" is standard.

As the picture opens, there are shots of Stengel and Dodger Manager Walt Alston which you might call typical. Alston is a sphinx, Stengel's mouth is wide open.

Mantle emerges as slightly remiss in the outfielding department. On at least two fly balls he charged in like a whippet and then chugged to a slow motion halt a few feet in front of the ball to take it on the easy first bounce. The tumbling antics of Slaughter, Duke Snider and Hank Bauer were inspirational in contrast.

Slaughter's Bobble Clear

The picture shows clearly that Slaughter's racing miss of Jackie Robinson's line drive in the sixth game was a right tough effort. He came hard and stabbed high and it should wipe out a lot of tough remarks about how the old warhorse ran out of gas.

A classic is Berra's tackle of Larsen after the big fellow pitched the final strike of the first World Series perfect no-hit, no-run game. Yogi leaped high, wrapped his arms around Larsen's neck and then took a joyous leg scissors on the Larsen midriff.

Most of this was old hat to the assembled sports figures and the main topic of conversation was a debate as to whether Robinson would play ball again next season. The orators were about evenly divided but one Giant official declared firmly

"We think he'll play for us."

This may be wishful thinking, because with him the Giants will fill the park at least against Brooklyn and without him they won't draw flies. But one thing sure, last October there weren't any flies on those Yankees.

Cro-Am, Viaduct Fives Win

Leaders in Easy City Loop Tilts

Guglielmi Named Tops in Service

WASHINGTON (UP)—Lt. Ralph Guglielmi, former Notre Dame star who played last season with the Bolling Air Force base team, was named the armed forces outstanding player of the year today by the Washington Touchdown Club. He will be honored at a dinner Saturday night.

Junior WPIAL Action Begins This Afternoon

Junior WPIAL basketball action begins today for all district schools.

Monessen will open its Section 2 bid at Monongahela.

The Junior Hounds have drawn a tough assignment for the opener. According to reports, the Monongahela exhibition record of two wins and four losses is misleading.

The Kittens have a giant 6-4 center who never saw a basketball until the start of the season. He's learned a lot in the past few weeks and figures to make Monongahela a pretty good team as the season progresses.

In exhibition play, Coach Frederic Feldman's Monessen boys won three games and lost three. They looked both good and bad ing their pre-season tests.

Other Section 2 games today will send Charleroi to Washington and Donora to California.

Section 3 Busy

Section 3 will be busy today too. Marion will appear at Vernon, Rostraver will go to Fallowfield and Carroll Twp. will travel to Perryopolis.

Both Marion and Vernon are undefeated to date, so the sparks should fly in that game.

Rostraver, despite a so-so record, has a fine club and observers will be watching the outcome of the Leps game at Fallowfield.

Likewise Carroll Twp. has a good little team which should hold its own even in the tiny Perryopolis gym.

Reagan Signs As Villanova Coach and AD

VILLANOVA, Pa. (UP) —Frank Reagan, Villanova University football coach for the past three seasons, began a dual job today as head coach and athletic director under a three-year contract.

The 37-year-old Reagan, who recently was under consideration as an assistant to Steve Sebo, head coach at the University of Pennsylvania, signed the new contract at "a substantial boost" in salary, Villanova President Rev. James A. Donnellon announced Monday night.

Reagan, former backfield star of Penn and the Philadelphia Eagles of the National Football League, will replace Ambrose F. (Bud) Dudley as athletic director. Dudley quit last week because of a change in Villanova's scheduling policy, which university officials contended was not outright deemphasis.

Reagan, whose teams have won seven games and lost 22, said he was assured Villanova would "continue to participate in major college football competition with principal limitations on the geographical area of opponents and travel."

At the time Dudley resigned, Father Donnellon confirmed that a change in football policy was taking place, but he said it meant only that the Wildcats would not schedule away games in the deep South and in the Southwest.

In announcing his acceptance of the dual job, Reagan said:

"I am deeply gratified that Villanova University has seen fit to place two of its most important athletic positions in my hands. It is a fine personal compliment and I intend to do everything in my power to show them that their confidence in me has not been misplaced."

To Discuss Grid Loop Tomorrow

A last ditch effort to organize a football conference of district Class A schools will be made tomorrow evening in the offices of the Brownsville Telegraph.

Representatives of several Class A and Class B schools are expected to either okay or nix the proposed conference at that time.

Three exploratory meetings have already been held. Considerable interest was expressed originally, but there is some doubt now that the conference will ever materialize.

Frank Bonifield, of Waynesburg, is chairman of the Conference group while Raymond Barker, of Bellmar, is in charge of the steering committee.

Marion Coach Ill at Hospital

Marion Junior High's undefeated basketballers will open their Section 3 campaign at Vernon today without their coach, Harry Muckle.

Muckle was taken to Charleroi-Monessen hospital on Sunday. Since then he has undergone two blood transfusions and is scheduled for two more today, according to close friends.

In Muckle's absence, the quintet will be handled by Thomas Banjor, former all-around athlete at Marion who has assisted Bap Manzini with the Bellmar High footballers the past two seasons.

Gifford Named MVP in Pro Loop

NEW YORK (UP) —Frank Gifford, who includes playing left halfback for the New York Giants among his many money - making activities, today was named the National Football League's Most Valuable Player for the 1956 season in the annual United Press poll.

Gifford, whose jobs include owning and renting apartment houses and writing a sports column, received 12 votes in balloting by 25 sports writers who covered the campaign in the league cities.

Bobby Layne, Detroit Lions quarterback who led the pro circuit in scoring with 99 points, was second with seven votes.

Only two other players received votes. Rick Casares, Chicago Bears fullback who won the rushing title with 1,126 yards, drew four votes. The other two went to Tobin Rote, Green Bay Packers quarterback who led the league's passers in yards gained in 1956 with 2,203 yards.

Hounds Risk Long Win Record at Tiny Cane Floor

Monessen High's proud basketballers — boasting a 35 game winning streak in Section 5 play — will invade Bellmar tonight for a difficult test.

MHS boss Frank Janosik has never unestimated an opponent. Thus his cautious attitude at the moment is hardly surprising.

On the other hand, Janosik doesn't cry "wolf" at every danger either. All of which makes his concern over tonight's game take on added importance.

Janosik is willing to concede that his students have authored a better record this season than the Canes. He'll also go along with the experts who pick the Hounds to finish higher in the Section 5 standings than the Bellmars.

However the wily Monessen coach is nervous over the tiny Bellmar gym. His team simply can't operate anywhere near peak efficiency on a small floor.

No Real Height

Without any real height, the current Monessen team has been tailored for a big floor. Speed and finesse have been stressed.

However these attributes don't mean much on a cramped floor.

Actually Bellmar has a pretty good ball club, too. The Canes have a misleading 3-4 record, mostly because they haven't been able to win close games. No opponent has really embarrassed Bellmar this season.

Coach Jack Flora, who has always managed to fashion winning seasons, has a fair-sized quint which particularly likes the Bellmar floor. That fact is proven pretty conclusively by a couple of exhibition scores.

For example, the Canes lost close games at both Rostraver and Ramsay, then whacked the same two teams at home. In each instance the point-spread was better than 20.

Better at Home

It would seem then that the Canes are 15 to 20 points better at home.

Bellmar starters tonight will probably be John Hewitt, 5-11; Bill Schmidt, 6-1; Ron Schmidt, 6-1; Jim Sitonti, 5-8; and Jim Campbell, 5-10.

Other members of the Bellmar roster are Bob Beggs, 6-1; Paul Hayduk, 5-9; Bill Sowden, 5-8; Tom Package, 6-2; Harry Niccolai, 5-11; Bill Kubin, 5-9; and Andy Stefanik, 5-11.

Monessen will start its usual lineup of Frank Crisi, 6-0; Dick DiBiaso, 6-1; Carl Crawley, 6-0; John Bogovich, 5-10; and Maurice Mathieu, 5-9.

The sixth man is Joe Kurey, 6-0.

Unlike last year's Greyhound edition, this team doesn't appear good enough to win on a "bad night." And that factor should be enough to stimulate all foes this season to go all-out against the Hounds.

Whoever snaps the long Monessen win streak can consider the season a success. Tonight it's Bellmar's chance to try.

Scorsone came to terms with the Lions after appearing in the Senior Bowl last Saturday at Mobile, Ala.

"They offered me so much more money than the Washington Redskins that I had to take their contract," the Pitt senior said.

Hornung, De Luca Will Speak at Banquet Sunday

Notre Dame football star Paul Hornung and St. Vincent grid coach Al DeLuca will share the speaking spotlight at a Holy Name Society banquet in Twin Coaches next Sunday.

Another sports figure, broadcaster Frank Buscanics of WESA in Charleroi, will serve as toastmaster.

Other speakers will include Rev. Gerald Schroath, Diocesan Director of the Holy Name Society, and Rev. John Stofcik, District Six Director.

The event will be staged by Societies from 15 parishes and four missions making up District Six. Represented will be men from Monessen, Brownsville, Perryopolis, West Newton, Grindstone, Belle Vernon, Newell, Fayette City, Sutersville, Smithton, Allison, Fellsburg and Webster.

Four Specs to Sing

Entertainment will be supplied by the Four Specs, a singing quartet from the Monessen Lions Club.

Horning was an All-American quarterback from Notre Dame. He was named 1956 Heinsman Award winner as the nation's outstanding player. The Washington Touchdown Club also picked him as the best collegiate gridder of last season.

DeLuca, veteran St. Vincent coach, is regarded as one of the finest after-dinner speakers in the district.

Next Sunday's affair will begin at 6:30 p.m. Tickets may be secured in Monessen at Janosik's Pharmacy and in Belle Vernon at Joe Pasqua's Barber Shop.

Pitchers Set New Record for AL

CHICAGO (UP)—The total of six 20-game winners in the American League last season equalled the highest number for any campaign in that circuit during the post-1920 lively-ball era. The six 20-game winners were Early Wynn, Bob Lemon, Herb Score, Billy Pierce, Frank Lary and Billy Hoeft.

Rostraver at Hurst Tonight

Leps Face First Section 10 Game Away from Home; Hurst Favored

Rostraver's ambitious basketballers appear at Hurst tonight in an important Section 10 game.

Observers feel the Section 10 race is so even this season, that a couple of away-victories will clinch it for the eventual champion.

So tonight's tussle takes on added importance.

Actually the Leps will hardly fall out of contention if they lose. The experts figure most section teams WILL lose away from home.

However a win at Hurst will considerably enhance Rostraver's chances in the Section 10 grind.

Impressive Win

Coach George Everett's Leps opened impressively enough, swamping Dunbar with ease.

Hurst started last Friday, dropping a close decision at Ramsay. Before that the Hurricanes had won seven in a row to gain stature as a real title threat.

Other Section 10 games tonight will send Scottdale to Dunbar and Ramsay to Ligonier.

Three tussles are on tap in Section 5. Monessen will go to Bellmar, Donora to Brownsville and Charleroi to Monongahela.

Brownsville started last week by losing a 16 point decision at Monessen. However, the final point spread was misleading. The Brownies made a real game of it for more than three periods.

Donora, on the other hand, was hard pressed to earn a one point decision over visiting Monongahela. Thus the Brownies were more impressive in defeat than the Dragons were in victory.

Charleroi Favored

Charleroi, the odds-on favorite to win Section 5 honors this season, should have pretty much its own way at Monongahela even though the Wildcats have been improving of late.

In Section 17, no league games are scheduled. However All Saints will appear at Perryopolis while Avonworth will go to West Newton.

Here's the way the Daily Independent sports department picks tonight's games.

MONESSEN at Bellmar (5)
Donora at BROWNSVILLE (4)
CHARLEROI at Monongahela (15)

Clemente Signs Pirate Contract

PITTSBURGH (UP) — Roberto Clemente, whose .311 batting average with the Pittsburgh Pirates last season marked him the third best hitter in the National League, has signed a contract to return to the Bucs in 1957 for more pay.

Clemente, now batting more than .400 in winter baseball in Puerto Rico, reached terms with Pirate general manager Joe L. Brown who is touring the Tropics. Brown refused to discuss terms of the new agreement but his office here indicated Clemente negotiated a "substantial" raise.

The 22-year-old outfielder is the sixth Pirate to ink a 1957 contract. Others to sign include Frank Thomas, Paul Smith, Dick Groat, Ron Kline and Bill Virdon.

To Stage Boxing in Pittsburgh Theatre

PITTSBURGH (UP)—Pittsburgh boxing promoter Ben Anolik announced today he has leased an East Liberty movie house for a charity show Feb. 25.

The card will feature middleweight Wilf Greaves, a Canadian who now calls Pittsburgh his home and either Kid Gavilan, former welterweight champ, or Chico Vejar, Anolik said.

The fight will be staged at the Enright Theater for Hungarian relief.

The promoter has been hard pressed for a show place since the Gardens was torn down for an apartment project. The theater, he said, may solve his problems.

Kansas Scrambles to Ragged Win Over Oklahoma as Stilt Gets 22

By UNITED PRESS

None of them looked too impressive, but high-ranked basketball teams Kansas, Kentucky, and Illinois were glad to settle today for victories that kept them among the nation's leaders.

Kansas, the nation's No. 1 team, took over the undisputed lead in the Big Seven Conference and ran its perfect record to 11-0 Monday night when it scrambled to a 59-51 victory over Oklahoma even though brilliant Wilt (The Stilt) Chamberlain was "held" to 22 points.

Third-ranked Kentucky put on a ragged exhibition at home before Coach Adolph Rupp juggled the lineup at halftime, and then the Wildcats pulled away to their 10th win in 12 starts, 81-62, over Loyola of Chicago.

Illinois Beats Iowa

Illinois, the nation's No. 10 team which was rudely upset in its Big Ten debut last Saturday, notched its first league win of the season, 81-70, over defending champion Iowa—but only after trailing at halftime on its own court.

In other leading games Monday night: Archie Dees' 28 points edged Indiana to a 79-68 win over Wisconsin. George Lee's 20 points paced Michigan in withstanding a late rally to nip Michigan State, 70-69, and Ohio State rallied in the last four minutes to beat Purdue, 75-68, as Ken Sidle scored 25 in Big Ten games; Notre Dame avenged an early-season loss by beating Northwestern, 82-61, as John Smyth scored 28; Missouri upset Iowa State, 77-59, for State's second loss in 10 games, and Nebraska led all the way in beating Colorado, 74-52, in the Big Seven; Clester Harrington's corner shot with four seconds left gave Tulsa a 65-64 win over defending champ Houston and sophs Joe McDade and Gene Morse scored 21 each to give Bradley an 88-75 victory over Drake in the Missouri Valley Conference.

Auburn Trounces Ole Miss

Defending champ Alabama downed Mississippi St., 83-78, Auburn trounced Mississippi, 88 - 66, ninth-ranked Vanderbilt beat Georgia Tech, 81-73, and Tulane routed Georgia, 72-54, in the Southeastern Conference; Rice downed Arkansas, 78-68, in the Southwest Conference; Furman sank 54.5 per cent of its shots in nipping Virginia Tech, 85-81, and Ted Weeks' 36 points led Citadel to an 81-71 win over VMI, in the Southern Conference; Vinnie Conen's 35 points led Syracuse to its sixth straight win, 79-78, over Connecticut; 19th - ranked Oklahoma City beat Western Kentucky, 85-78, despite 35 by Western center Ralph Crosthwaite; Marquette sank 24 of 27 free throws to edge Detroit, 69-64; Duquesne beat Villanova, 57-45; Penn St. trounced Gettysburg, 86-50; and Arizona beat Texas Tech, 79-63.

Five high-ranked teams will play tonight. North Carolina (No. 2) seeks to run its record to 12-0 at the expense of William and Mary; fourth - ranked Southern Methodist shots for 12 out of 13 against Texas A&M; 11th - ranked Canisius hosts Dayton; 19th-ranked California visits Stanford; and San Francisco, also tied for No. 19, hosts Santa Clara.

Dukes Defeat Villanova; Pitt Plays W. Virginia

By UNITED PRESS

Duquesne University stayed with its five-man starting squad Monday night at the Pitt Memorial Fieldhouse and posted an easy 57-45 victory over Villanova.

Penn State had even less difficulty scoring an 86-50 triumph over Gettysburg at University Park.

West Virginia and Hot Rod Hundley visit the Pitt Panthers tonight in the featured event on a busy collegiate card in the state.

The Dukes fell behind only once, 5-4, after an opening four point margin in chalking up their seventh victory against four losses. Coach Dudey Moore's travel-weary squad, which made a swing through Ohio last week, held a 27-22 halftime margin.

The Wildcats came to Pittsburgh from Buffalo where they had played St. Bonaventure on Saturday night. The trip apparently was too much for Coach Al Severance's men. Guard John Kelly took high scoring honors for the losers with 12 points. Villanova made only nine of 33 first half field goal tries.

Rickets Gets 18

Duquesne forward Dave Ricketts paced the hosts with 18 points for the game's scoring honors.

Penn State's Lions recorded victory No. 7 against three defeats in their romp over Gettysburg. The Lions ran up a 47-15 halftime lead and then sent in the bench for the second-half walk.

St. Vincent traveled to Youngstown, Ohio, Monday night for an 88-63 trouncing at the hands of the hosts. Bob Atterholt and Mickey Yogovich paced Youngstown with 17 points each. They shared high scoring honors with the losing Bearcats' Harry Folk who also notched 17.

In other activity tonight, Allegheny plays at Grove City, California at Marietta, Clarion at Alliance, Indiana at Lock Haven, John Cuarroll at Slippery Rock and Thiel at Edinboro.

Tatum's Aide Gets New Job

CHAPEL HILL, N. C. (UP) — Jim Tatum looked around today for a new assistant to replace Eddie Teague, who resigned at the University of North Carolina to become head coach at The Citadel.

Teague, third Tatum assistant to become a head coach in the past year, signed a five-year contract Monday at the South Carolina school. Teague had been an assistant to Tatum at Maryland before the former Terrapin coach moved here last year and he came here with his boss.

Tatum said Teague "will make The Citadel a fine head coach.

Tatum said Teague's resignation will leave a "big vacancy" on the Tar Heel coaching staff and "his place will be hard to fill."

He said he will name Teague's successor from among the part-time coaches who worked with the Tar Heels during the 1956 football season.

Added Side-Shows Will Be With Globetrotters in Monessen Feb. 6

There will be more than basketball to entertain the fans when the famed Harlem Globetrotters meet the House of David quint at the Monessen High gym on February 6.

As an added attraction, the Trotters will bring along a couple of vaudeville acts, a table tennis duo and a troupe of wild west lassoers.

Thus the MHS gym figures to be a busy place once Abe Saberstein's Trotters hit town.

The basketball game, itself, should thoroughly delight everyone. The fun-loving Trotters are a show in themselves, especially when they accumulate a comfortable lead over their foes.

Fine Reputation

While not as famous as the Trotters, the House of David cagers have also won a fine floor reputation down through the years. They've been touring the country since way back in 1931.

The team is sponsored by the Israelite House of David cult at Benton Harbor, Mich.

Since the cult takes Jesus as their pattern, members grow their hair and beards long. They are vegetarians, believing strongly in the Commandment, "Thou Shalt Not Kill."

According to their publicity releases, the cult selects their basketball players with care, considering character as well as athletic ability.

As for the Globetrotters, they need little publicity. They are generally considered basketball's finest — and funniest — creation.

Extra Acts

Of the extra acts, fans should particularly enjoy a table tennis exhibition by Ted Bourne and Bob Anderson. Not only are those two paddle experts of championship stature, but they're comedians to boot.

Mick Pickering, just 21, accompanies the Trotters as a juggler while, Don Philips, entertains on a unicycle.

Completing the pre-game show will be the Carlells, a husband-and wife team of lassoers.

Tickets for the big show will be priced at $3. All seats will be reserved. That means fans who buy their tickets now will pick up the best seats.

The event will be sponsored by the Monessen Knights of Columbus.

Redlegs Offer Post Wage Hike

By UNITED PRESS

Slugger Wally Post received a heart - warming vote of confidence today when the Cincinnati Redlegs granted him a raise despite a 1955 campaign in which his batting average fell off 60 points.

The Redlegs thus expressed a willingness to forget last season when the 27-year-old outfieder hit a mere .249 and knocked in only 83 runs. Post walloped .309 and drove in 109 runs in 1955.

The Redlegs pointed out that Post finished the season strong—by hitting in 14 of his last 15 games. He is the 14th Redleg to agree to terms.

The Kansas City Athletics announced the signing of pitchers Bobby Shantz and Dave Melton and outfielder Johnny Groth. Shantz, a hard-luck guy for the last three years, said the finger he fractured late last season had healed. He had a 2-7 record and a 4.36 earned run mark in 1956.

Groth batted .258 in 95 games while Melton, 28, was sidelined all last season with a fractured wrist.

The Chicago White Sox assigned outfielder Jim Delsing to Indianapolis in the American Association. Delsing hit .095 in 65 games last year.

Second Half in Millwrights Loop

The second half race opened in the Blooming Mill Millwrights Bowling League last night with the Furios sweeping over the Brenimans and the McVickers whitewashing the Geiselharts.

Top scorers were Bob McKeever, 199-522; Joe Altomari, 188-499; Rudy Cheroki, 193-494; Chuck Miller, 161-467; and George Mahalko, 191-465.

The Furios bowled a total score of 2440 to set a new team record for the season.

Stancatos, Bikseys Win in Bowling

Stancatos won two of three games from the Russos and Bikseys won a pair from the Burgers in Construction Bowling League action last night.

Top scorers were F. Stancato, 157-429; Sedok, 184-446; T. Burger, 178-442; C. Biksey, 153-403.

St. Cecelia Wins Three in Bowling

St. Cecelia blanked St. Anne and St. Marcella won a pair from St. Victoria in St. Leonard's Ladies League bowling last night.

Scoring leaders were Elizabeth Hricko, 150-395; Betty Gedeon, 141-395; Frances Gagatko, 130-341; Vilma Gagatko, 144-333; Pauline Cenkner, 147-328; Marie Helzlsouer, 133-314.

Courchesne in Upset over Busso

NEW YORK (UP) "— went after him like Gene Fullmer," said substitute lightweight Bobby Courchesne today, explaining his upset TV victory over taller and heavier Johnny Busso at St. Nicholas Arena.

Courchesne of Holyoke, Mass., a 14-5 underdog, snapped New Yorker Busso's winning streak at seven straight Monday night on a split 10-round decision. He weighed only 134¾ pounds to Busso's 140.

He won by a single-point margin, but it was a great moral victory for little Bobby. And it brought him back to New York and TV — another fight in St. Nick's with Carmelo Costa, Feb. 11.

On a rounds basis, Judge Artie Aidala favored Courchesne, 5-4-1; but Judge Bert Grant had Busso ahead, 6-3-1. Referee Tony Martin gave each five rounds, but awarded the fight to Bobby on points, 6-5.

The United Press favored Busso on rounds, 5-4-1, and a poll of seven ringside writers showed four for Busso, one for Courchesne and two "even."

College Baseball Coaches Declare 'War' on Scouts

ST. LOUIS (UP) — Baseball coaches of the National Collegiate Athletic Association declared their campuses and locker rooms "off limits" to major league scouts today, but they admitted the talent raids would be next to impossible to stop.

While baseball coaches were striking back at the major leagues, who have abandoned their non-raiding pact, NCAA football coaches began arriving for their part in the association's 51st national convention.

A report on basketball television and recommendations of the football rules committee were scheduled today, with the more important football TV plans marked for preliminary review Wednesday.

Monday's session disclosed a proposed amendment to the athletic code which would make it more difficult for the student-athlete to pyramid both scholarships and outside jobs. The amendment, which will be offered for approval by the convention Friday, would limit the student - athlete's allowable school term salary to no more than the amount which, when added to his scholarship, would give him room, board, books, fees and laundry allowance.

Medical Hypnosis Successful

By DELOS SMITH

NEW YORK (UP)—The first experiment with hypnosis as a substitute for anesthetics and pain-deadeners in a hospital emergency room showed that it worked almost equally well in two kinds of cases.

These were persons with broken bones and persons with wounds which required considerable stitching. The emergency surgical treatment should have been painful. It wasn't, under hypnosis.

Dr. L. Goldie experimented with emergency room patients as they appeared, without making any effort to sort out those who appeared "susceptible" to hypnosis from those who might not have been.

Susceptibility, he found, seemed to have little to do with whether hypnosis would prevent a person from feeling pain during a painful operation. What seemed very important was whether the patient had an injury which obviously required immediate surgical attention or whether the injury was such that he knew time did not matter.

Broken Bones Impressive

Broken bones and spectacular wounds requiring sewing impress the patients who have them; they're keenly aware that something catastrophic has happened to them. But abscesses or a splinter or a nail in the body, doesn't seem as immediately threatening. With these latter cases, hypnosis didn't work very well.

Goldie avoided the nonsensical palaver usually associated with hypnosis. With the patient on the table, he held him in conversation. He asked if the patient had a vivid imagination, if he could imagine himself relaxing in a bed or on a beach. Often, continued the doctor to his patient, you don't feel the shoes on your feet or the clothes on your body unless you think of them. So it is with all sensations.

Distract His Thoughts

So it can be with surgery, said the doctor, adding that the patient must speak right up if he felt anything in which case he would be given an anesthetic. The doctor then told the patient to pick out a way of distracting his thoughts from his injury — either to relive in his imagination a time and a place when he felt utterly relaxed, or to concentrate with each breath on relaxing every muscle.

He used this hypnosis on 28 cases of broken or dislocated bones with only two failures. The patients varied in age from 3 years to 57. The effective rate for 95 persons with wounds requiring sewing was almost as impressive.

Dr. Goldie worked in the emergency room of a big London hospital. His report was published by the British Medical Association. He specified that his results were experimental and he hoped that "further work will remove hypnosis and related phenomena from the position of a medical curiosity, impractical in use and unsavory in reputation."

Missile Document Missing

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Army is trying to recover copies of a secret document containing guided missile information which fell into unauthorized hands in an apparent "violation of security regulations."

Army Secretary Wilbur M. Brucker announced an investigation of the leak Monday night and said a senior officer is being questioned "among others" concerning the matter.

He identified the officer as Colonel John C. Nickerson Jr., 41, chief of the field coordination branch, Army Ballistic Missile Agency, Redstone Arsenal, Huntsville, Ala.

Brucker did not identify the leaked document other than to say it "apparently contained secret information" about Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson's Nov. 26 directive setting forth which guided missiles are to be under Air Force control and which under Army control.

The document "was discovered in the hands of unauthorized persons," Brucker said.

He said the Army would not comment further while the investigation is in progress. It "is taking prompt steps to retrieve any copies of the document which may have been disseminated," he said.

Nickerson, a Kentuckian, was graduated from West Point in 1938 and holds a master of science degree in aeronautics from the California Institute of Technology.

County Jail Population Up

The inmate population of the Westmoreland County jail, falling in recent years, reversed the trend in 1956 when a total of 1,319 prisoners were committed, according to the annual report of Warden William R. Hohn.

The 1,319 figure represents a jump of 24 law violators over 1955 but remained well under population figures from 1951 through 1954. All but 148 of the 1,319 prisoners were males.

Disorderly conduct, non-compliance, burglary and larceny and violation of the motor code, were the four charges under which the greatest number of male prisoners were held with disorderly conduct and neglect of minor children jailing the largest numbers of female prisoners.

No Major Projects

Warden Hohn in his annual report to the Westmoreland County Board of Prison Inspectors also revealed that "no major project was undertaken at the institution during 1956, but finger print and photographic equipment has been purchased and plans are being made for the establishment of a school for guard personnel through the Pennsylvania State Police . . ."

He also revealed that the County Jail has been established as an "alternate base station for Civilian Defense" through which 64 fire departments throughout the county can be alerted and their sirens activated by the jail radio equipment.

Research Gives Heavier Beef Cattle, but with Less Feed

By UNITED PRESS

Tom King, Penn State Extension specialist, said today that research with beef cattle has produced beef types which inherit the ability to put on weight or maintain body weight with smaller amounts of feed than some other animals of the same breed.

In-breeding by researchers has produced lines that have a special ability to produce meat efficiently, he said. Steers obtained by the experts put on two and a half pounds a day on the same ration that gives a gain of only two pounds in standard commercial strains, and all of these animals reached market finish with standard weight and carcass quality, King said.

Some of the more exceptional animals obtained in the tests gained as much as three pounds a day, and research men are sure they can get these exceptional gains in the type and kind of beef cattle that breeders and markets prefer, according to King.

Comparing all the tests by research men over the years, it seems highly probable that breeding animals which can put on weight on less food can be applied profitably to all types of livestock production, King said, and that similar results have been gotten with meat-type hogs.

Hogs gain

Two decades ago, meat-type hogs on test reached 200 pounds in six to seven months on about 380 pounds of feed per hundred pounds of gain.

"Today," King said, "test animals reach that 200-pound mark in five to five and one half months, and consuming an average of only 325 pounds of feed per hundred pounds gained."

"Because feed represents the highest single production cost, anything that can be done to cut feed costs means more money in your pocket," King concluded.

Production Drops

According to a Federal-State survey, Pennsylvania's milk production for last November dropped below 1955 levels for the second consecutive month, while the number of milk cows remained at 946,000.

The November output of 462-million pounds was 1 per cent less than the October output, which was 2 per cent below that of the month of September. The blame, the state Department of Agriculture said, can be placed on the excessive summer rains which caused poor quality hay, and poor ensilage production.

Eisenhowers to Hold Diplomatic Reception

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower and Mrs. Eisenhower will open the White House winter social season this month with a diplomatic reception.

The formal social season is the first scheduled at the White House in more than a year because of the President's heart attack.

The season will open on the night of Jan. 24 with a reception for chiefs of mission and high ranking members of the diplomatic corps.

MISS FRANCE OF '57? — Genevieve ZAnetti, 17, is shown in Paris after she was elected "Official Miss France 1957." At the moment it looks as if there is to be a repetition of last year's fiasco, when two "Miss Frances" were chosen. The contest is a preliminary to the "Miss Europe" and "Miss Universe" beauty pageants.

Steel Sets Sights on New Production High

CLEVELAND (UP)—The steel industry has set its sights on a 120 million ton output this year, Steel Magazine said today.

The mills jumped off to a fast start last week, turning out 2,461,893 tons while working at 100 per cent of the 1956 capacity. The weekly publication said industry spokesmen are predicting a production record by the end of 1957, topping the present all-time mark of 117,036,085 tons set in 1955. The output last year was 115,000,000 tons.

The magazine said steel capacity will continue to mushroom this year, probably more than it did in 1956. About 15 million tons of new capacity is under construction with 6 million tons of it slated for completion in 1957. Five million tons was added to capacity last year.

If the new production high is to be reached, the mills must hum along at 90 per cent of capacity this year. This figure is computed from the annual capacity figure for 1957—133,459,150 net tons. The figure amounts to an increase of more than 5 million tons, the tonnage added to capacity in 1956.

One factor which chopped down steel output last year does not threaten the industry again this year. Labor has a three-year contract with management, and no trouble on that front are foreseen. The wage increases coming this year and next will boost the cost-of-living index also, the publication said.

Steel, which included a 500-page metalworking yearbook and planning guide in its issue this week, said the metalworking industry expects its 1957 sales to reach $145 billion, $10 billion over last year's sales.

Wholesale Sales Totalled $11.2 Billion in Month

WASHINGTO (UP) — Wholesale sales in November totalled $11.2 billion, about the same as in October, the Commerce Department reported today.

The department's office of business economics said November sales were up $600 million from November, 1955.

Sales of durable goods in November totalled $3.7 billion, four per cent above the previous year. Officials said the rise generally was a result of higher prices.

The Census Bureau estimated meantime that the United States in November imported $986 million worth of goods. This was about 12 per cent less than in October.

The preliminary estimate showed that November imports declined four per cent from those of the same month of 1955.

action from sports cars

WIDEST RANGE AND CHOICE OF POWER IN MERCURY HISTORY—A 290-hp TURNPIKE CRUISER V-8 engine is optional on all models. In the Montclair series the standard engine is a 255-hp Safety-Surge V-8 with a Power-Booster Fan that saves horsepower other cars waste. A 255-hp Safety-Surge V-8 is standard in the Monterey series. A special M-335 engine (335-hp) is available at extra cost in Monterey models equipped with standard transmissions.

Never before has so much bigness and luxury cost so little. For this is the biggest Mercury you've ever seen. And although Mercury has moved up to a new size class, it has stayed in the same popular price class. It represents the biggest size increase—and the biggest value increase—in the industry.

And Mercury introduces features you can't buy at any price in other cars.

Mercury's new Dream-Car Design is Mercury's alone. It is sleek, daring, clean-cut—makes other cars look plump and old-fashioned. Mercury's exclusive Floating Ride is the finest combination of bump-smothering features ever put between you and the road.

And you can get features like Keyboard Control—the most advanced automatic transmission control on any car. A power seat that "remembers" your favorite driving position at a touch of a dial. And Quadri-Beam headlamps for a better pattern of illumination.

Check the low price tags in our showroom. You'll find you can get a new Big M for little more down—or per month—than for the lowest price cars. And what a lot more you get!

3 Memorials

In loving memory of our dear wife and mother, Mrs. Christine Fulgenzo, who passed away nine years ago today, January 8, 1948.
The blow was heavy, the shock severe.
We little thought that death was near,
But only those who have lost can tell.
The pain of parting without farewell.
We who loved her, sadly miss her.
We who held her very dear.
And in the lonely hours of thinking
Often feel her presence near.
Sadly missed by Husband, Sons and Daughters.

3 Memorials

In loving memory of our dear father, Frank Micka, Sr., who passed away 10 years ago today, January 8, 1947.
Sad and sudden was the call
Of one so dearly loved by all;
A bitter grief; a shock severe:
It was to part with one so dear.
We often sit and think of you
And speak of how you died;
To think you could not say goodbye
Before you closed your eyes.
For all of us you did your best,
Oh, God, grant you eternal rest.
Sadly missed by John W. Woods Family

In loving memory of our dear mother and grandmother, Mrs. Mary Sayka, who died 31 years ago today, January 8, 1926.
From this world of trouble and sorrow
To the land of peace and rest.
God has taken our beloved mother
Where she has found eternal rest.
We often sit and think of her
When we are all alone,
For memory is the only thing
That grief can call its own.
In our lonely hours of thinking
Thoughts of you are always near.
We, who loved you, sadly miss you
As it dawns another year.
Sadly missed by Children and Grandchildren

Your Health—

Emotion May Produce Spots Before the Eyes

By H. N. BUNDESEN, M. D.

You may not actually "see red" when you are angry, but you may see spots

Those floating specks or little hair-like curlicues which most of us see before our eyes at some time or other may be temporary minute chemical precipitations caused by some violent emotion

Chances are you might have noticed them while seated in a dentist's chair having your teeth fixed It's not unusual because such a situation sometimes produces a certain amount of fear

These spots — we call them "vitreous opacities" — might also be the result of lowered physical condition or high blood pressure.

Possibly it is old age creeping up on you Then, again, it may mean something serious. Detachment of the retina, for example, might be indicated by a large spot, or a cloud of fine dust-like particles before the eyes

Coarser spots sometimes mean a serious rheumatic or tubercular infection, an injury to the membranes of the eye or even an abscessed tooth.

These spots, or curlicues, which appear to dart about in front of your vision actually are floating inside the eye in the jelly-like substance which fills it The vast majority of these specks are the remains of white cells which become detached from the eyes interior membranes The denser spots usually come from broken blood vessels.

If you are nearsighted or have astigmatism, you are much more likely to see these specks and they are more likely to remain with you But if you are still young or middle-aged and are in pretty good health, they probably won't cause any great annoyance

Still, if these spots appear suddenly, and remain for any length of time, it's a good idea to see an eye doctor.

Secretary to Jerry Lewis Is Quite a Job

HOLLYWOOD (UP)—The most bewildered secretary in Hollywood is a young St. Louis girl whose boss dictates letters while sitting under his desk, shaving or doing a fast buck-and-wing around the room.

When pretty Jane Thompson walks into her office she never knows what to expect from boss Jerry Lewis, Jerry is a producer these days, with suitable executive offices at Paramount A sign over the door advises, "the monster's lair."

"It's bedlam," Jane sighed today from behind her typewriter.

Sometimes she has to scribble her shorthand while Jerry shaves in his tiny office washroom Often his writers and five other colleagues also are jammed into the washroom, a situation the teacher didn't tell Jane about when she studied how to be a secretary in St Louis.

"Sometimes when he's dictating I'll look up and he'll have crawled under the desk," she said. "Sometimes he'll waltz around the room.

"Once he dictated four lines of nothing but punctuation before I caught on—his timing is so perfect. Other times he'll dictate letters in double talk The trouble is, it's hard to tell when he's serious

I'm gullible, and embarrass easily. When he telephones me he often speaks in a dialect—and I think it's somebody else"

Jane works from 7:30 a.m. to at least 6 p m. Two mornings a week Jerry makes his secretary repeat this oath after him: "Oh, great white father of humor, you are the funniest man I know, the most delightful to be around and the most wonderful boss to work for.
